INTRODUCTION. Currently, in the period of rapid development of the population, which is growing rapidly all over the world, as well as in our country, the need for legal services is increasing, to satisfy this need, each state must have its own comprehensive legislation, and by bringing this legislation to all categories of the population, we can achieve such necessary factors as improving legal culture.

The role of a legal service employee is invaluable in ensuring the rule of law and strengthening legality in society, as well as in conveying the content and essence of adopted legislative acts to the executors and the population.

ANALYSIS OF RELEVANT LITERATURE. Although no scientific research has been conducted on the theoretical and legal problems of legal services in our country, general theoretical and specific problems of forming a legal state and civil society in the Republic of Uzbekistan; Sh. N. Berdiyarov, H. B. Boboev, M. S. Vosikhova, I. B. Zokirov, Z. M. Islamov, E. D. Kutibaeva, J. U. Toshkulov, I. T. Tulteev, A. S. Tursunov, H. T. Mamatov, M. M. Mirakulov, O. Z. Mukhamedjanov, O'. Kh. Mukhamedov, Z. Muqimov, It was studied in the works of Kh.T.Odilgoriev, O.Okyulov, F.A.Primov, F.K.Rakhimov, Kh.Rakhmonkulov, M.Kh.Rakhmonkulov, M.Kh.Rustambaev, Sh.N.Rozinazarov, A.Kh.Saidov and others.

At the same time, a study of the results of research conducted in foreign countries and the CIS countries shows that research has also been carried out in them on legal affairs, legal protection, legal assistance, educational and methodological aspects of legal services, advocacy and legal services, as well as certain sectors of the economy, and legal services in enterprises. Among them, the works of A.N. Bratok,

S.M. Aizin, V.I. Eremenko, V.S. Anokhin, E.R. Antiperovich, O.N. Buhalovsky, A.N. Chashin, L.V. Shcherbacheva, Y. Burdett, T. Harry, E.J. Adsett, K.V. Burns studied some aspects of the legal regulation of legal services, but the role and place of advocacy services, which are the main part of the legal services sector, were almost not covered. Research methodology. The article uses methods such as systematic approach, cause and effect, analysis and synthesis, time and space, induction and deduction, correlation level and linear regression, traditional, economic mathematical and statistical methods of economic analysis.

ANALYSIS AND RESULTS. Legal service is available in all branches of the national economy, that is, in all branches of production and management of the economy, in ministries, offices, associations, enterprises, institutions and organizations, as well as in hokimities, higher bodies of state power and administration. Any activity cannot be organized without legal services. In order to legally ensure the activities of local state and economic management bodies, legal service activities are organized in their structure.

Over the past period, special attention has been paid to the development of small business and private entrepreneurship in our country, as a result of which the number of enterprises and organizations with the organizational legal form of joint stock companies, limited liability companies, additional liability companies, private enterprises and economic companies has increased several hundred times. The role of the legal service in ensuring legislation, monitoring compliance with contracts and labor discipline, ensuring the preservation of property through legal means, and carrying out other legal work is of great importance in their activities. In the implementation of legal services, the role of lawyers, who are qualified legal specialists working in advocacy structures providing these services, is invaluable, and they participate as the main sector employee in the process of covering changes in legislative and regulatory legal acts to meet public needs through legal services. On January 19, 2017, the Law "On Measures to Radically Improve the Activities of Legal Services" was adopted, which was aimed at radically reforming this area.
